BRITISH ELECTION STUDY AT A GLANCE

- The British Election Study is a non-partisan, objective independent study providing world-class data and research into British general elections

- More than 1 million BES Questionnaires completed since 1964

- High quality random probability in-person surveys after every general election since 1964

- Approximately 55,000 downloads of data since May 2015

- Large online internet panel, 30,000 people per 'wave'

- 447 articles using BES data (since 2014)

- Electoral Shocks: Understanding the Volatile Voter in a Turbulent World, published 2019

- Electoral Realignment: how Brexit re-shaped British elections, to publish autumn 2024

- Political Studies Association Prize: Research Communicator of the Year Award 2015, Pippa Norris Prize for outstanding contribution to advancing knowledge, 2023

- Department of Politics, and International Relations: Impact Leader Award 2023

- Around 1,500 BES mentions in the media since 2014

- Britain's longest running social science survey (1964, 2015 UK general election, 2017 UK general election, 2019 UK general election, present day…)

- Co-led by University of Manchester & Nuffield College, Oxford since 2013. Formerly Nottingham University, now also Royal Holloway University

- Datasets freely available to the user community: scholars & students, policy makers, journalists, pollsters, political parties.